Twenty-two percent of all jobs in NSW are in inner city Sydney.

We are tight on space – the Sydney CBD is 280 hectares in size compared to New York at 78,000 hectares and London at 157,000 hectares. There isn't a lot of room to move.

To continue the state's economic growth, Sydney needs to increase the number of jobs our CBD supports.

With record low office vacancy, limited supply and a restricted CBD footprint, how can we attract international business and what are our strengths as an office market?

What can we learn from other international markets to activate our CBD, create great precincts and unlock office space?

Join us to dive into the Property Council's January 2019 Office Market Report data and draw out the key opportunities and challenges in 2019 and beyond.
