

NSW Retirement OUTLOOK 2019

Property Council of Australia

By 2056, 20 per cent of Australia's population will be 65 and older, a massive figure that means we need to re-examine the way we design our cities and built environment.

Baby boomers are the next wave of retirement living customers and want state-of-the-art facilities and this changing demographic will push the boundaries in retirement living further.

Are we ready for the revolution in retirement living?

Operators will need to implement creative and innovative approaches to design, marketing and technology and work even harder to reach this savvy and demanding consumer group.

What's next for a sector facing regulatory change and increased demand?

Where will innovation in design and operation come from and what will it look like?
