

DEFINING RESILIENCE

IMPLICATIONS FOR PROPERTY

There are many challenges that affect our building stock and those who work, live, shop and play in them. Extreme weather events, security threats and social unrest can potentially have devastating effects on our buildings, and wider community.

The Australian property industry is known for its innovation in sustainability and wellness. How do we extend that innovation into building resilience?

Join us as our panel of experts demystify the concept of resilience for the property sector, and how to incorporate best practice strategies to improve your building's adaptive capacity.

Keynote speaker

TOBY KENT
Chief Resilience Officer, City of Melbourne

Panel

GREG JOHNSON
National Sustainability Manager, Commercial Property,
Stockland

ANNABELLE BUTLER
Executive Manager, Suncorp

GEORGIA VITALE
Associate, Integrated Design and Planning Leader
NSW & ACT, Arup

Moderator

LARS COENEN
City of Melbourne Chair of Resilience Cities,
The University of Melbourne

TUESDAY 19 SEPTEMBER

4pm registrations for 4.30–6.00pm

King & Wood Mallesons
Level 50 | Bourke Place
600 Bourke Street | Melbourne

Member $85 | Non-member $130

Hosted by:
KING & WOOD
MALLESONS
金杜律师事务所